EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Gentlemen of the senate and of the House of Delegates.

Prompted anke by duty and inclination, to render to you in your high character of immediate representatives of the people, an account of the manner in which we have disch rged the du'i s of the important trusts confided to us, .. s well as to make such suggestions as reflection and experience may have dictated, it may be remitted us first to offer you individually and collectively our sincere congratulations upon your sife arrival, in good health, at the seat of government, and to felicitate both you and ourselves upon the generally prosperous and happy con lition of our fellow citizens throughout the state.

Although there is much to admire in the annual accounting of those who have been entrusted with the chief Executive power, with the more immediate representatives of the people, and through them with the people themund for the est b islament of free schools, In ursuance wher of, Messas, Darsey, Dulany, the theory and principles of our happy form of Wormington, Cottman, and Dadley, were apthe circle of our domestic relations, it is not to be expected, nor indeed d sired, that there should often b much th t is new or of awakening int rest in this or similar communications

Based as our government is upon written constitutions and Lws, carefully protecting the rights of every chizen, and wisely distribuil g and clearly defining the powers, rights and du-tics of the several functionaries to whom the overeign people have confided the man gem :: t of their effairs, it would seem that peace, ora r and harmonious accord, in all its internal operations, should ever att nd its progress. Such has hitherto been eminently the c. se within our own State, and with few exceptions it has so far, been no less the happy fortune of our sist r states, and of the Union. Time may now be said to have demonstrated to these Union St. as Tim : may nov 'c the inestimable value of the form of government devised by the enlightened patriotism, and brought into successful operation by the p triarchal virtues of our ancestors; but it his qually shewn that human wisdom can devise nothing, how ver excellent, which may not, by hum. 14be entirely freed, by any forms of governm at, rom the workings of those adversary princips, tween the governing and the governed, with I have marked the he tory of mankind through II ime; and who stour admir ble constitution to y be sound to have done, and be still capable or uning, much towards pr serving the just bilas o of our political system, it must main tely prive but a weak barrier against the inroads of amoiion and power, unless strengthened by the censtant devotion, and guarded by the wakefu vigilance of the free people, to whom it is the sheet-anchor of hope. Whenever the people of this country shall become indifferent to this subject; whenever they shall fail to rally with ... acrity and zeal to the repair of any breach which may have been made in the palladium of their liberties, then shall we h ve pussed our meridian as a confeder ted republic, and be rapidly descending to servility and despotism.
